A Brief Introduction

Aatmoday's Hobby Club Council, formed a year ago, has transformed into a vibrant community at our university, providing a platform for students to showcase their talents. Initially, a handful of members juggled running the club with their academics. From a modest start with 20 members, the family has now grown to include over 2000 students from every department.

Since its launch on September 26, the council has been the driving force behind various events, including the grand inauguration ceremony, Cultural Dusshera Fest, Literary Fest, and the Coding Competition featuring Robo Wars. Nearly 100 students have been victorious in club competitions, showcasing the success of these events. With a total of 22 events so far, the Hobby Club continues to thrive.

The Secretaries' dedicated efforts are the backbone of this success, injecting new energy into the club. Aatmoday's Hobby Club Council is just not a club; it's a emotion that holds talent and collaboration. As it moves forward, it remains a source of inspiration, encouraging students to excel and leaving a remarkable impact on our university's cultural scene.

The dedicated efforts of the Secretaries have been instrumental in the club's success, infusing new vitality into the organization. AATMODAY's Hobby Club Council is more than just an institution; it's a tightly-knit community that nurtures talent and collaboration. As it moves forward, it remains a beacon of inspiration, motivating students to excel and making a profound impact on our university's cultural landscape
